

TOLEDO MUSEUM OF ART

Annual Report

for the Year 2003–2004

Chairman and Director's Report

DEAR FRIENDS:

For 103 years, the Toledo Museum of Art has played an active role in the lives of those who enter its doors. The 2003–2004 fiscal year was no exception, as the Museum family of staff, volunteers, and members took cues from the legacy of this grand institution and incorporated innovation to bring the Museum alive to an even larger audience and new generations of art lovers. The Museum is, indeed, bringing art to life.

BUILDING

From a virtual groundbreaking in the Peristyle to the beginning of construction, the imminent presence of the Glass Pavilion was the talk of the year. This landmark project—a work of art in itself—pays homage to the legacy of the Glass City, Museum founder Edward Drummond Libbey, and the Studio Glass Movement, while propelling the Museum and Toledo into the forefront of 21st-century architecture. Upon completion, the elegant structure will house and display the Museum's collection of more than 7,000 glass objects and state-of-the-art glassmaking facilities.

STRENGTHENING

Thanks to the solid leadership of seven previous directors, including Roger Berkowitz who retired in January 2004, the Museum is in prime condition to move forward and establish an even more vital role in the lives of those in our community, our country, and our world—all through the power of art. In the past year, the Museum acquired 92 works of art to enhance the collection, while celebrating several beloved mainstays, including the dazzling Libbey Punch Bowl, which reached its centennial in April 2004. By embracing both growth and tradition, the Museum attracted and intrigued nearly 340,000 visitors in Fiscal Year 2003–2004.

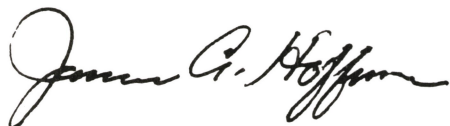

CONNECTING

We made a commitment last year to attract and engage diverse audiences, and we succeeded. The Museum's Cool Jazz, Hot Art programming complemented the Lee Friedlander: American Musicians exhibition and resonated with a wide range of visitors drawn by their love of jazz, pop culture, photography, American history, and art.

Later in the year, the 86th Annual Toledo Area Artists exhibition opened to more than 1,000 guests anxiously awaiting the revelation of award-winning works of art from regional artists, as well as loans from the museum in Toledo's Sister City of Toyohashi, Japan. This initiative to reach out to new audiences continues with the exhibition Picturing Freedom: Photographs from the American Civil Rights Movement and a Juneteenth family festival scheduled for the summer.

With the support of our Board, members, volunteers, supporters, and staff, the Museum finished the 2003–2004 fiscal year in a strong position by building upon a solid foundation, strengthening our existing resources, and connecting with new audiences and visitors. At the heart of it all is our commitment to perpetuate the Museum's mission—to integrate art into the lives of people—for another century and beyond.

We recognize and appreciate your support.

Financial Statement

Since its inception, the Toledo Museum of Art has offered free general admission to the public. However, the cost of this commitment has steadily risen as we have grown to meet the public's needs. Founders Edward Drummond Libbey and Florence Scott Libbey exercised great foresight in establishing an endowment for the benefit of the Museum. However, its capacity to support operations reached its peak in the 1960s when it funded approximately 75% of the Museum's operating budget. Today, while Libbey and other Museum endowments remain vital for the Museum's continuing ability to offer its services to the public, these funds provide only 56% of revenues needed to operate the Museum on an annual basis. And, despite a rich legacy of serving the entire community, the Museum remains a privately supported institution that does not receive public funding from the city or county. Therefore, we depend on our community—especially individuals—to support the Museum with gifts and membership dues for a total annual contribution base of 19%, which includes foundation grants, corporate sponsorships, and realized testamentary gifts. The 25% balance of revenue is earned through income from the Museum Store, Café, School of Art & Design tuition and other program fees.

The Founders of the Second Century campaign launched in 2001 brought about visionary and necessary initiatives to enhance activities and new projects, including the Georgia and David K. Welles Sculpture Garden, improvements to the School of Art & Design, and the forthcoming Glass Pavilion. During the 2003–2004 fiscal year, the Museum was able to conclude several of these projects while focusing the operating budget on ongoing service to the community and maintaining a balanced budget. This commitment to sound financial management continues to position the Museum for measured and meaningful growth into the future.
